INDIAN VALLEY PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Indian Valley, Virginia 24105

March 10, 1987

GREETINGS!

Thank you for coming to my rescue attempt on February 15, 1987; it was a success. The Presbytery agreed to let me open up as a chapel under the Slate Mountain Presbyterian Church. This makes me so happy! The Presbytery also promised to provide some song books. Electricity will soon be restored.

The first church service will be the first Sunday in April at 11:30 a.m.. Brian Childress preaches first that day at Slate Mountain, and then comes here. We are fortunate to have a preacher like Brian at this time; he loves the Lord.

I will always have many happy memories, one of them is seeing people receiving a peace that passes all understanding. A lot of these people have already gone to be with the Lord. I want to serve people for generations to come.

Since I don't have hands, please lend me yours to dial the phones and knock on doors, inviting people to visit the church. We will all praise the Lord together.

I am always here and love to have visitors, any time during the week, to meditate and talk to God. So feel welcome to visit any time. A key to the front door will be mailed promptly to any person who wants one. Just write the church giving your name and address.

I am proud to be your church.

With love
